

Starting this month, you may notice a change to your Equal Payment Plan (EPP) amount. We made adjustments to reflect estimated natural gas costs for the upcoming plan cycle, which runs August 2025 through July 2026. Your new equal payment plan is then calculated and divided into 12 monthly payments.

Your Equal Payment Plan is calculated by subtracting estimated natural gas charges from the actual cost of your natural gas usage during the plan cycle. This determines any remaining balance or credit for the period you were enrolled.

- If the amount paid for your previous EPP is higher than the natural gas used, you will see a decrease to your new plan cycle.

- If the amount paid for your previous EPP is lower than the natural gas used, you will see an increase to your new plan cycle.

Based on these scenarios, your Equal Payment Plan amount will be calculated and automatically renewed for the next plan cycle. This amount is divided into 12 monthly payments.

Annual Equal Pay Review Summary

Refer to your August bill for a summary of the following Equal Pay Plan information.

Actual Charges

Beginning balance plus total natural gas and other charges incurred during the Plan year.

Equal Payment Plan Charges

Total Equal Pay charges billed during the Plan year.

Difference

The difference between your actual charges and Equal Pay charges billed. Your account will be adjusted based on a balance owed or a credit due.

New Plan Amount

Based on your estimated natural gas usage and includes projected changes in natural gas prices. The monthly payments are divided over 12 months.

Questions?

Contact us at CustomerCare@njng.com (residential customers), BusinessCare@njng.com (commercial) or call 800-221-0051.

