Attention to Safety: Inspect Your Piping

NJNG owns and maintains the natural gas pipelines and the service lines that lead up to your natural gas meter. However, safety does not stop at the meter. It is the homeowner's responsibility to inspect and maintain the pipes from the outlet of the natural gas meter to your natural gas appliances and equipment.

These pipes can include fuel lines – both inside and outside your home or business – and buried lines that lead to outdoor appliances (such as a grill) or remote structures. Follow these safety tips to help prevent possible damage to your property:

Have a licensed professional locate and inspect the buried natural gas lines that originate from your meter and lead to your appliances and equipment. And keep a copy of the diagram for future use.

Periodically inspect for leaks, corrosion and damage to your pipes and equipment. When necessary, have a licensed professional immediately make repairs.

State LAW requires that all excavators – including homeowners, business owners and contractors – MUST call 811 or 800-272-1000 for a free markout of underground public utility lines at least three business days prior to any planned digging.

An NJNG contractor will mark out the service line that comes from the natural gas main to your meter. However, customer installed lines such as fuel lines to gas grill, pool heaters and sprinkler systems, invisible fencing or low-voltage lighting, are not marked by our contractor. So, before you dig near buried pipes, use caution and hand locate the pipes in advance and then dig by hand.

At NJNG, attention to safety is our top priority – make it yours too! For more information about natural gas safety, visit My Safety at njng.com.
